Sunflower seeds, cracked corn and peanuts are attractive to a wide range of backyard birds, they also are attractive to insects, rodents, raccoons and other pests. Seed that is not stored properly can also begin to rot. Storing birdseed in a safe, secure way can eliminate these problems.

These galvanized containers made from sturdy metal that will not rust, chip, crack or break over time. Conveniently sized containers make it easy to fill and store your birds food. Lids seal tightly to prevent insects, squirrels and other rodents from accessing the seed.

If storing your bird food outside, you may want to use a metal can. Aggressive squirrels chew through the plastic and devour all of the seed inside.

- Securely fastened sure-lock cover.
- Rust & weatherproof for outdoor use.
- UV and temperature stable.
- Keeps your bird food dry and safe.
- Fire Safe.
